

The Last of Rollins, Perhaps.

Great Combustion of Gas at the Capitol.

The Statement.

Thirteen More Millions Piled on the People's Back.

A Specimen of Radical Economy.

DOO.. DOO.. DOO..

Special Dispatch in the Louisville Journal.

Washington, August 7, 1863.

THE RADICALS ARE OUT.

There was a lively Cabinet meeting to-day over the case of Rollins. After a discussion of two hours, however, he was decided out, and the affair will doubtless end with this decision. There is much speculation as to his successor. Camm and Jeffries seem ahead. Both are bold suggestions. A. J. is great on measures, but has a genius for making bad decisions as to men.

RADICALS EXPLAINED. There was a terrible gas explosion at the Capitol to-day. The gas arrangements have been neglected by many radical officials, who are trying to tax a man about coppered nitro glycerine, to excuse their own dereliction of duty. The loss will exceed ten thousand dollars.

McCallum's statement of the public debt, which was held back by him, and returned to the different heads of the department, with instructions that they should see if there was not some mistake—showed an increase of thirteen millions in two months. Three days were consumed in overhauling every item, but no mistake was found. The radicals are anxious about the matter, and some of them began to abuse McCallum. They say he should have kept the statement back altogether.

KENTUCKY.

The result of the Kentucky election surprises the most sanguine Democrats, and is regarded as a foreshadowing of the Democratic power which is steadily acting in all over the North.

THE POLITICAL SITUATION.

The political situation brightens every day. New from the Pacific represents gains for Seymour and Blair as certain as every state.

COON RIVER.

The political situation brightens every day. New from the Pacific represents gains for Seymour and Blair as certain as every state.

Some old fogey New York politicians recently telegraphed to Frank Blair asking him to moderate the tone of his speeches. His reply was decisive. He told them that he had studied the situation carefully, though he understood it, and meant to treat it freely and fearlessly. It is said that Gov. Seymour is very much pleased with Gen. Blair's speeches.

THE ELECTION.

Official Returns from Forty-five Counties.

Gain of 27,510 for the Democracy.

By orders from the office of Secretary of State and elsewhere we have increased our list of official county returns to forty-five, which will result in showing that the Democratic gains over the vote of last year is 27,510, making the majority for Governor Stevenson, so far, 80,626. It can hardly be doubted that the returns from the remaining counties will increase the majority to one hundred thousand.
